

Determined to make a vigorous fight to capture the Macleod federal riding in the approaching election, the Dominion Labor party at Blairmore, Saturday, placed James Fairhurst, Coleman miner, in the field as their candidate.—20 Years Ago Item in Lethbridge Herald.

Endeavor to Sponsor 5-Team Hockey League

Clareholm, Macleod, Bellevue, Blairmore and Coleman Clubs included; L. S. Richards Extends Invitation to Prairie Teams.

The local hockey executive are busy formulating plans for promoting a five-team intermediate league this winter. Invitations will be sent this week to Clareholm and Macleod clubs asking them to consider entering the Crows Nest Pass league.

The population of both these prairie towns has been largely augmented by the service flying schools located there. It is known that Clareholm has three former professionals stationed there with possibly a few other good puck-chasers as yet untried.

Dave Barry, of Clareholm and former Coleman goalie, is much enthused over the prospect of a five-team league and has promised the Coleman executive his full-hearted support in organizing a team.

Macleod in past years has had a good junior team and it is hoped that a number of these players will advance to intermediate ranks aided by the air force where a number of really good players might still be in hiding.

It is well known that since early summer Joe McDougall, of Blairmore, has been on the look-out for hockey talent. Joe is determined that his 'down will have an A-1 hockey machine this winter.

Bellevue is still in the dark but it is hoped now that a five-team league is to be sponsored some sportsman will take over the management of a team.

As far as Coleman is concerned there will definitely be a team. An executive was formed several weeks ago and already one player from outside has applied for a position. It is possible that several new faces may be on the line-up. The old favorites, who still make the opposition sit up and take notice, are still on hand and to have them as the backbone of the club with several clever youngsters up front, Coleman should have no fears from other teams.

As an incentive to build up a good team there is always the trip to the Pacific coast for the western intermediate finalists beckoning.

PRESENTATION OF FIRST AID AWARDS TO BE MADE SATURDAY EVENING.

The annual banquet of the Coleman branch of St. John Ambulance Association will be held at 7 p.m. in the L.O.O.F. hall on Saturday next.

Presentation of certificates, medals and labels will be awarded to last year's classes. Archie McCulloch and Jack Rushton are president and secretary respectively of the local branch.

WATER SAMPLE FROM NEZ PERCE CREEK PURE

Last week a report on the water sample taken from Nez Perce creek was received by the council and found to be pure. No pumping from the Old Man river has taken place for some time and consumers at the present time are enjoying pure drinking water. A water sample has now been taken from the river and sent to Edmonton for analysis. The last report on river water was found to be contaminated but with colder weather conditions now prevailing it is hoped that it too will be found pure.

Hotel Proprietors Grant Recognition To Employees' Union

Conference Held at Blairmore On Saturday Evening; To Again Meet Not Later Than November 20 To Discuss Terms of Contract

The week-old stand between the hotels and union organizer for recognition of the C.N.P. hotels and restaurant employees union came to an end on Saturday evening when eight Pass hotel proprietors and managers granted recognition to the union.

During the week when hotel proprietors refused recognition their places of business were under boycott and it was to come to an agreement to stop this that the meeting was held.

Following is the statement of recognition as passed by the hotelmen: "We, the following undersigned hotel proprietors and managers, do hereby grant recognition to beverage dispensers, under charter, the Crows Nest Pass Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Union and further agree to meet in conference not later than the twentieth day of November, 1941, to discuss terms of contract covering beverage dispensers and to discuss the inclusion of all other employees engaged in hotels and restaurants. Signed by J. F. Smith, J. A. McDonald, J. Lipovski, L. S. Richards, Geo. Sangster, Tom Duncan, Steve Bobrosky and A. Lazarenko.

Consumers Given 20 Per Cent. Reduction In Water Rates

Mayor Antrobus has signed the necessary papers with the Coleman Light & Water Co. resulting in a 20% reduction in water rates to the consumers of Coleman.

This reduction will go into effect immediately and consumers will get the advantage in their November statements.

Coleman to Buy Bren Gun Carrier Monthly

Cost Approximately $5,000; Sum Can Be Easily Raised if Everyone Co-Operates; To Canvass Business Section.

Coleman War Savings committee has pledged itself to have Coleman War Savings Certificate buyers purchase a Universal Bren Gun Carrier at an approximate cost of $5,000 per month.

In August, 1941, certificates purchased amounted to $2,180. This amount has to be more than doubled if the committee is to make good its pledge. A town the size of Coleman should be able to buy $5,000 of certificates without the slightest hesitation. The population of the town and outlying districts such as east Coleman, Carbondale, Willow Drive and Grafton town, is close to 4,000. If those persons who have failed to purchase certificates or who have purchased a few then stopped, would only sit back and figure out how urgently Canada needs their dollars to help win this war they would have no hesitation of buying at least one certificate monthly.

Since the last campaign closed and which was supervised by the Lions Club it has come to the attention of some of the canvassers that some persons whom they had signed for so much per pay had simply because it became known that some of their friends had not subscribed to the purchase of certificates. This is a case of cutting off one's nose to spite one's face. Chances are if they traced the money spent, which should have been spent on non-essentials. Worse, however, is the fact that Canada's war effort was denied that much needed money.

A new appeal will be launched in Coleman within the next few days for all to subscribe to the purchase of war savings certificates. Those who are buying regularly are asked to increase their monthly purchases. To those who are not buying regularly the plea goes forth to realize the danger that Canada and the Commonwealth of Nations stand in today from the Nazi hordes, and to help themselves and their country by purchasing war savings certificates regularly. If your next door neighbor fails to buy certificates do not let that stop YOU from helping your country and fellow men. SPEND LESS TO BUY MORE WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES.

Junior Red Cross Sending Magazines to Armed Forces

Six and Three Quarter Tons Have Now Been Shipped; Deposits At Cameron School and Antrobus' Shoe Store

Cameron school's Junior Red Cross has intensified its drive for old magazines to send to Canada's armed forces as the result of a recent appeal last week for more magazines. To date approximately 6 1/2 tons of magazines have been shipped to Halifax where they are distributed to the forces.

The local association has been fortunate in having magazines brought to them from the Pass towns. Jim Tatt, of the Hillcrest C.P.R. depot has been very kind in collecting material and bringing it to Antrobus' store. Local citizens having old magazines need only let Miss Yuill know and Red Cross members will be sent to pick them up. Several of the merchants have co-operated in providing empty cardboard cartons for packing plus strong rope. The magazines are packed and shipped from Antrobus Shoe Store.

CAMERON SCHOOL STUDENTS ANXIOUS THAT WATER BE TURNED ON IN SCHOOL

Following the publishing of an advertisement by the council in another publication students of Cameron school rushed to Principal Miss A. Yuill informing her that the local drinking water is now pure and would please turn on the water, which has been shut off since it was known the water was not fit to drink without boiling.

True, the present supply of drinking water as secured from Nez Perce creek is pure but what they did not know was that the creek will shortly be unable to supply the town's water needs and pumping must start to take water from the river and placed in the water mains. As far as known this river water is contaminated. The best bet for the students is to watch the Coleman Light & Water Co. adv. in The Journal and it will tell them if the water is contaminated or not.

STREET LIGHTS ON TILL 5 A.M. TO HELP POLICE

On orders from Mayor Antrobus the main street lights are now kept lighted till 5 o'clock each morning.

Reason for the order is to help both local and R.C.M.P. to keep suspicious characters under surveillance when walking through the streets during the night.

Last week the R.C.M.P. noticed suspicious characters on main street at an early hour in the morning and due to the total darkness were hindered in their work of keeping these men in view. As a result of this report Mayor Antrobus took the view "prevention was better than the cure" in regard to possible robberies.

CIGARETTE FUND NOTES

Sirs: Just received your most welcome cigarettes and was very glad to get them. When I was back in Canada I never did imagine cigarettes could be so tough to get, so keep up the good work. I am sure the boys here appreciate them more than you can imagine. I have met Cocellone, Cpl. Smith, Kanik, Mason, Kroesing and Hastings since I got here. Give my regards to all and thanks a million. George Burtink.

Dear Archie: Received the third parcel today. Thanks a million. Please do send me some pipe tobacco. Things are the same over here, quiet. The days are getting shorter and this means only one thing, longer evenings to spend at more smoking, if you have some smoking.

Wishing you and the boys the best of luck. Sgt. Vollendorf.

Have You Placed Your Name on The Voters' List?

October 31 will mark the closing day when those eligible to vote in February municipal elections, will have the opportunity of placing their names on the voters' list.

Many have registered and now can help elect any candidate they wish.

Should the election campaign be hot and interesting for the mayorality, council or school board offices you can take part in them. If you have failed to register your name you can only stand on the sidelines, helpless to take part. REGISTER NOW! See Miss Gladys Lees at the town office.

Fernie Dickson Missing In Action Since Oct. 14

First Coleman Boy to be Victim Of Nazis; Parents Notified By Cable On Friday.

Fernie Dickson, aged 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dickson, formerly of Coleman and now resident at Vancouver, is reported missing in action since October 14. A cable to this effect was received by his parents last Friday.

Fernie resided here many years with his parents and attended the local schools. In 1934 he left with his parents for the Pacific coast. He enlisted at Vancouver as an air-gunner in September, 1940, and had risen to the rank of sergeant. He went overseas in May of this year.

It had been known that he was taking part in the heavy raids being made over the continent. It is to be hoped that in being brought down he was able, with his companions, to parachute to earth and so land safely.

Relatives residing here are a sister, Mrs. Robert Bell, an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. Beveridge, and an aunt, Miss Elizabeth Beveridge.

Woollen Materials Wanted By Local Red Cross

Dances To Start Saturday, November 16; Many Donations In Clothing and Quilts Received.

A special meeting was held on Tuesday evening by the local branch of the Canadian Red Cross for the purpose of electing officers for the forthcoming year. A letter from provincial headquarters received prior to the meeting, however, stated that it was not advisable to elect officers until after December 31, and it was the opinion of the meeting to abide by the headquarters' suggestion and hold the election of officers at the end of the year.

A circular letter was received from headquarters informing the members of the urgent need of woollen blankets by the Red Cross in Britain. New or blankets as good as new would be acceptable. Flannelette blankets were not wanted. The local branch is appealing to Coleman citizens to donate any old woollen material as it will take steps to have the material made into blankets. Woollen underwear, old blankets, etc., will be acceptable.

Two accounts, $77.33 and $2.00 were authorized paid.

Numerous donations have been received by the local branch. The Nicholas and Webster stores have given generously of new clothing which is much appreciated. The Polish ladies, Eastern Star and Rebekah lodges have helped with quilts. The Catholic ladies and S. Paul's have also given aid in the making of quilts.

Acknowledgement of the Red Cross members is made to the ladies at Sentinels who have made and donated several quilts to the local branch.

Appreciation was expressed to the town council for installing a socket in the town hall to aid the workers with their sewing. Supporters of the Red Cross have built two quilt stretchers as well as loaned an electric sewing machine. All favors to the branch by supporters were appreciated by the meeting.

The aluminum collected in the recent campaign has now been sorted and ready for shipment. Approximately 300 pounds has been collected.

Patches for quilts are available and the workers' committee would appreciate the help of more voluntary workers. Those desiring to help can get the material by contacting either Mrs. W. L. Rippon or Mrs. H. Sherratt.

The fall and winter dances will commence in the Italian hall on Saturday, November 15. Edie's orchestra has been engaged.

Mrs. R. Rhodes is spending a vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Antle.

Mrs. E. V. Wood entertained a number of ladies at bridge on Friday evening. Prize winners were Mrs. J. Kellock, Mrs. J. Kinnear sr., and Mrs. A. Anderson. Mrs. A. Walker won the lucky prize.

For Improved Highways

The deliberations in connection with the annual convention of the Good Roads Association must have served to bring to the attention of the people of this Dominion the great importance of roads to our economic life. The subject should be of pertinent interest to the residents of the three prairie provinces, as this section is notably behind the rest of Canada in the construction of paved roads.

The wide spaces of the west, together with the comparatively sparse population, have been important factors in bringing about this condition. Also the economic structure, as compared to some of the more densely populated sections, is another reason why the west may have lagged behind.

Notwithstanding this, much credit must be given to the highway administrators of the Western provinces for the manner in which they have carried on in the face of great difficulties during the years of depression. In the province of Saskatchewan, as an example, there is a total of 212,834 miles of roads, 5,764 miles being all weather roads, 155 miles are of bituminous treated gravel, the remainder being earth roads.

The Tourist Traffic

The construction of a paved highway from east to west across the three prairie provinces would naturally result in much greater tourist traffic. In addition to the immediate financial benefits from this source, it would also serve to bring about a better acquaintance with the other sections of our country as well as with our neighbors to the south of us. It would also serve to bring to the attention of outsiders some of the potentialities and great attractions of the west.

The national parks systems in the three prairie provinces offer many attractions for the tourist, while further west in British Columbia the scenic grandeur of the Rockies are too well known to need comment. It has been pointed out that a paved trans-Canada highway would enable east and west to reach a better understanding. To study each other's problems, and thus help to develop the much desired end of a more completely unified Canada.

Federal Assistance

While Canada is engaged in an all-out war effort there can be no thought of diverting funds to other than the vital necessities of war. We can, however, look to the post-war period when work for many will need to be provided after demobilization.

As a post-war policy the improvement of our roads could well receive attention. Road building to furnish employment for many of our service men and those who are at present engaged in war industries, would seem to offer at least a partial solution. The tentative policy which has been outlined at various times, appears to rule out any thought of the dole and in its place to substitute a program of public works as a better form of service to those who may be in need of assistance. If this plan was adopted the country at large would receive lasting benefits and there would be something tangible to show for any large expenditures of public monies.

It has been pointed out that Canada will have strong competition from European countries in securing tourist traffic from the United States after the war. Only by providing better roads and better facilities may we hope to attract tourists in desired numbers. The tourist traffic ranking as one of the most important sources of revenue in Canada, it would then appear reasonable to expect that the Federal Government will be prepared to lend every assistance possible when the days of peace towards which we so ardently look forward, may open up a brighter and happier era in this Canada of ours.

Remembered For Last Act

Marshal Petain's Historic Connection With Verdun Will Be Forgotten

Marshal Petain's tomb, according to his expressed wish, is eventually to be at Verdun, at Fort Douaumont, where the French soldiers made good his words: "They shall not pass." The place of the Marshal's burial is of no real importance, although the time of it might have been. But at this stage of his story we would remind Marshal Petain that he will not be remembered because of Verdun, no matter how imposingly he may be buried. He will be remembered, alas, because of Vichy. 1941 has swallowed up 1916. —New York Post.

Shah Of Persia

Potentate Was A Law Unto Himself When He Attended Luncheon

The entry of British troops into the dominions of the Shah may have recalled to some old readers of the Mail the visits which one of His Majesty's predecessors in the Land of the Lion and the Sun paid to our city some 50 years ago.

On each occasion the potentate was a law unto himself, he did what he pleased regardless of the official program. When he entered the Council House, where an elaborate luncheon had been prepared, his Prime Minister announced that his Persian Majesty proposed to sleep for an hour. Here was a nice jolt to the program!

When half an hour had elapsed and Majesty still slumbered, the Mayor suggested to the Prime Minister that the Shah should be awakened. "No," said the Prime Minister, with horror, "that is as much as my life is worth"; but the town clerk, nothing loth, marched into the Shah's room and boldly shook him out of his slumber.

The troubles with Royal Persia were not ended, however, for on entering the luncheon room the Shah caught sight of the most novel ornament on the table—a fine salmon standing on its head in a block of ice. His Majesty would not sit down until it had been removed, for he thought an attempt was being made to bewitch him!—Birmingham Mail.

Camel, horse, buggy and motorcar are used in the transport of some of His Majesty's mails from Cape York peninsula, in Queensland. 2434

Eskimo Women Are Not Tattooed In These Modern Days

Visitors to Canada's northland were advised by National Museum officials to use their cameras if they see a tattooed Eskimo woman, because it will be their chance to record the remnants of an age-old tradition that died easily when the white man came.

Painful tattooing, once used by all Eskimo women and many Indians, has become a lost art, said Dr. Diamond Jenness, chief anthropologist.

As recently as 1916 when he spent many months among the Eskimos studying the way of life, every woman was tattooed and the custom prevailed everywhere in the north.

"The young Eskimo woman believed she had to have tattoo markings on her face to get a husband," Dr. Jenness said.

"To draw an awl or needle with a soot-coated sinew attached to it under the skin was a painful process but was done willingly. When the Eskimo community realized white people did not use facial tattooing, and professed no liking for the effect it caused, it was immediately abandoned.

"To-day older women still may be seen with the tattoo marks but the younger generation knows nothing of it."

American Pilot Learns What Britishers Think Of Tea Time

Pilot Officer Albert Strauel, a Colorado youth who drank his only cup of tea with the King and Queen said that "if Hitler ever does try to invade England, he'll probably do it at tea time."

"The British fliers even time their sweeps so they can be back in time for tea," Strauel, who served 3½ months with the Royal Air Force, related in an interview.

The Coloradoan shelved his aversion for tea when the Royal family gave a reception for United States airmen with the R.A.F.

"When the King and Queen are drinking tea and you're handed a cup, brother, you'll drink it like I did!" he said.

So far the Smiths appear to have it, but as yet there is no record of the number of Browns and Robinsons.

Feeling Pinch Of War

Restrictions On Some Foods In Egypt Have Been Necessary

Egypt, the fertile land of the Nile, is beginning to feel the pinch of food shortage. The situation is regarded in Cairo as not serious, but some restrictions have been found necessary and others probably will follow.

The country's normal exports to Europe have been halted by the war and the big British army there eats far more than Egypt ever imported. Too, the wheat crop this year is below normal. As a result, some wheat will be imported and all bread now contains 15 per cent. rice flour by government decree.

There have been no potatoes on the market for weeks and some other vegetables also are scarce. The minister of supplies has proposed two neatness days each week to prevent the depletion of livestock.

SELECTED RECIPES

TOMATO JELLY

2 cups canned or fresh tomatoes
½ bay leaf, if desired
½ teaspoon salt
Stalk celery
Few grains Cayenne or pepper
1 envelope plain, unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 tablespoon mild vinegar or lemon juice
1 tablespoon onion juice.

Mix tomatoes, bay leaf, salt, celery and Cayenne or pepper and boil ten minutes. Soften gelatin in cold water. Add to hot mixture and stir until dissolved. Add vinegar and onion juice (extracted by grating onion). Strain and turn into molds that have been rinsed in cold water and chill. When firm, unmold on lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise or cooked dressing. Or the jelly may be cut into any desired shape and use as a garnish for salads or cold cuts. The juice of fresh tomatoes makes a delightful jellied salad.

Yield: Six servings.
Note: 1½ cups tomato juice or tomato juice cocktail may be substituted for the canned or fresh tomatoes. ¼ cup condensed tomato soup diluted with ½ cup water may also be substituted.

War Materials Resemble Articles Found On Pantry Shelf

We have visited quite a number of war plants within the past few weeks and watched chemistry at work producing some of Canada's essential war materials.

At first we were mildly amused at the similarity between some of these products and what we can all find on the pantry shelf, then we became definitely curious and finally were so impressed by the ludicrous resemblance that we felt the parallel should not pass unnoticed.

Here is what we found: hexachlorethane, the chemical that forms the base of smoke screen material, looks like salt; TNT looks like yellow sugar; smokeless powder, before it is extruded into lengths, looks like pastry dough; the fuse powder for the time-fuse on the nose of a shell looks like coffee grounds and at one stage in its manufacture resembles a giant waffle; gunpowder looks like soot (not on the pantry shelf, we hope) while cordite looks like macaroni—C.I.L. Over 90 Per Cent. Have Managed To Escape To Britain

When Prince Olav, the Norwegian Prime Minister and members of the Norwegian Government were guests of honor at a luncheon at the Dorchester, one of London's noted hotels, the British Broadcasting Corporation recording car was parked outside. The Dorchester stands in Park Lane, which, before the coming of motor buses, was the most exclusive and expensive residential street in London. To-day many of the handsome bow-fronted houses are scarred and shattered by bombs, but the Dorchester is still untouched. The glittering mirrors in the hall are not even cracked and the setting for this National Defence luncheon was as immaculate as that of any pre-war function. But the Norwegian guard of honor, fine husky men, many of whom had escaped from Norway at the risk of their lives to serve their Prince in Britain, was a vivid reminder of the war. Lord Nathan paid a richly deserved tribute to the part Norwegians were playing the war. Prince Olav, replying, told, most simply and modestly, some stories of hardships endured by some of his people in their spirited effort to follow their government to England. It is an impressive fact that over 90 per cent. of the Norwegian pilots have escaped from Norway since the occupation. Some crossed the North Sea in open boats; some crossed the mountains on skis into Sweden; some even went across Siberia. Volunteers from Norway are still flocking to the colors. Their one desire is to go back, armed, and drive the Germans out of their country.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Price-Ceiling Policy Under The War Time Price And Trade Board

Ottawa.—Responsibility for administering the new price-ceiling policy of the government, announced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, has been placed on the wartime prices and trade board under chairmanship of Rector B. McKinnon.

Not only will the board have to fix the ceiling prices on thousands of commodities but it will have to see to it that no merchant charges more than the price fixed.

A board spokesman told The Canadian Press the board would have to have offices in every centre of 10,000 population or more. It would require a staff of possibly 5,000 mostly expert accountants and persons familiar with the retail trade.

After fixing a price ceiling for manufactured goods the board will be responsible for seeing that manufacturers are provided with raw materials at prices which will enable them to produce goods that can be sold at not more than the ceiling prices.

This, it was said, will be fairly simple when the raw materials are obtained in Canada but where items are imported, such as cotton, wool and raw rubber, it may become more complicated.

One source said the board may have to buy such raw materials at world market prices and sell them to manufacturers at lower prices in order to maintain the ceiling, the loss being made up out of the federal treasury.

The price ceilings will apply on imported finished goods. In the event that prices for such goods rise in their country of origin to the extent that the selling price in Canada would be above the price ceiling, these goods will not be allowed into the country, it was said.

The board plans to start work at once building up the machinery to administer the price-ceiling policy. All instructions of the board in relation to ceiling prices will have the same force as its other instructions and any person who breaks them will be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine up to $5,000.

Final decisions as to how the job of administering price ceilings will be divided have yet to be made. At first one head of the price-fixing organization will be selected. Later it may be found necessary to have one head for textiles, another for metal products and so on, the spokesman said.

Polish Troops At Tobruk

Fought With Great Gallantry In Recent Successful Raid

Cairo. Polish troops participating in the defence of the besieged Libyan port of Tobruk carried out a successful raid on an Axis-held strong-point outside the siege line. British general headquarters, announcing the raid, said the Poles fought with "great gallantry and determination," killing 20 of the enemy at a cost of four casualties in their own ranks.

More Workers Insured

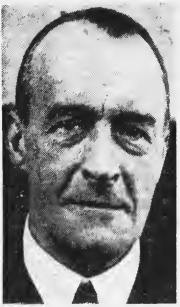

Estimate Under Unemployment Plan Has Been Greatly Exceeded

Ottawa.—More than 2,700,000 Canadian workers now are insured under the unemployment insurance plan, 200,000 more than it was estimated would be affected before the scheme was launched on July 1, the unemployment insurance commission said. Returns received by the commission showed nearly 140,000 employers were registered.

Visiting Gibraltar

Gibraltar. The Duke of Gloucester arrived by plane for a visit to this British rock fortress and its colony. He is staying with Viscount Gort, commander-in-chief here, and on whose staff the duke served in France.

"JAPS" CAN'T WIN

"Japan can never conquer China." That conviction was expressed by one of Britain's most colorful public figures, Sir Frederick Whyte, statesman, diplomat, author and globe trotter, who for three years was political adviser to the Chinese national government. He spoke in Toronto.

World Peace

Collective Force Must Be Used, Says Clement Attlee

London.—Clement Attlee, lord privy seal, said that, although the League of Nations failed, the principles on which it was founded must be used in the reform of the post-war world.

"There must be some collective force to enforce world peace," he said in a speech to the National Defence committee before preparing to leave for the United States to attend the International Labor conference.

He said a great plan of reform must be carried out in Germany to eradicate all influences of Nazism, and added that until such reform had been completed, Germany must not be permitted to rise again.

Awarded Victoria Cross

Two New Zealanders Decorated For Bravery In Crete

London.—The Victoria Cross has been awarded to 2nd Lieut. C. H. Upham and Sgt. A. C. Hulme of the New Zealand army for bravery during the Battle of Crete, it was announced in the London Gazette. The citations said Upham performed a series of remarkable exploits with utter indifference to danger while Hulme showed inspiring qualities of leadership, initiative, skill and endurance until he was wounded May 28.

Absorb Freight Costs

Proposal Made For Egg Shipments From Western Canada

Ottawa.—A proposal that the Canadian government absorb internal freight costs in shipping eggs to Britain, so that egg producers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia would receive an f.o.b. Montreal price, is under consideration by the special products board, which handles British orders for 30,000,000 dozen Canadian eggs.

This proposal was laid before department of agriculture officials by G. G. McGeer, Vancouver M.P., seeking assistance for British Columbia egg producers and a policy that would assure western egg production sufficient to meet British demands.

Mr. McGeer reported that the proposal had received favorable consideration. At the same time, he made representations that British Columbia poultry and stock producers should receive the same assistance in getting feed grains from prairie as Ottawa is now providing for eastern producers. Ottawa at present is paying one-third of freight costs on feed grain moving from west to east, and the figure may be increased shortly.

Planes Are Available

Bombers Are Ready For Every Crew Going To Britain

London. Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary of state for air, is considering a plan to send to the dominions some of the Royal Air Force's elite bomber and fighter pilots who could be used to train and stimulate recruiting, it was learned reliably.

This source said the output of the Commonwealth Air Training Plan was 60 per cent. higher in the second quarter of this year than in the first quarter and 100 per cent. higher in the third quarter than in the first.

He added that there is a plane available for every crew that comes over and stressed the necessity of hard work by workers in aircraft factories to produce machines for these crews.

Canada To Brazil

Rio De Janeiro.—The Canadian trade mission to Latin America reached an agreement with the Brazilian steamship line, Lloyd Brasileiro National Steamship Company, for establishment of a regular steamship schedule between Brazil and Canada. It was decided that a regular service between Rio de Janeiro and Sydney, N.S., would be established.

War Time Wage Policy Is Expected To Come In Force

Ottawa.—A wartime wages policy "with teeth in it" is expected to develop from the Dominion-provincial labor department representatives' conference in Ottawa. An informed source told The Canadian Press.

While the wartime wages policy has laid down in order-in-council P.C. 7440 gave the design the government considered necessary, it had two major weaknesses, this official said.

These were:

1. It could be enforced only through boards of conciliation appointed under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act for whose guidance it was formulated.

2. It prescribed only for industries coming within the control of the Dominion and did not deal with those within the authority of the provinces, although the Dominion government favored general application.

In prospect now, it was said, is a compulsory wages policy following the general provisions outlined in P.C. 7440 but applicable to all Canadian industry and enforced by provinces as well as the Dominion.

Its purpose will be to keep workers' income and essential outlays in line and thus avoid inflation as far as possible, the informant said.

The existing wages policy calls for payment of a cost-of-living bonus in addition to what have been established as "reasonable" wages, this bonus keeping pace with the movements of the federal cost of living index. But officials said it was evident some industries were paying more than called for by the existing wages policy, while others were paying less.

It was said the Dominion-provincial discussion of wages and other labor matters was entirely harmonious. Labor Minister McLaughlin said after the conference that every co-operation had been displayed by the visiting representatives.

It was understood the new wages policy, as proposed, could become effective without further meetings here. The provincial representatives received a complete outline of the Dominion proposals to safeguard labor's interests and maintain production during the war.

These proposals were taken back to home governments and when approved there will become part of the Dominion-wide wages set-up. So far there has been no indication how the various provinces will act.

Dominion bureau of statistics figures gave a clue to the movement of wages in a study of the employment situation at the beginning of August and taking into consideration payrolls for the last week of July.

The 12,577 establishments furnishing statistics said their employees numbered 1,905,580 at Aug. 1, and were paid $41,339,621 for services in the last week of July. This was an increase of $1,220,828 over the sum paid to 1,573,490 persons in these establishments in the last week of June.

"An increase of two per cent. in the number of workers was accompanied by a gain of three per cent. in the aggregate payroll, so that the per capita earnings gained slightly, rising from $25.49 in the last week in June to $25.74 in the last week in July," the bureau said. The bureau said these figures were preliminary and covered only the establishments which provided statistics. The total number of workers in Canadian industry has been estimated at more than 3,000,000.

Officials said that in the two periods covered by these statistics the cost of living rose almost two points, from 111.9 on July 2 to 113.7 on Aug. 1, on the base August, 1939, equals 100.

The cost-of-living bonus is paid in the first instance only if the cost of living has risen as much as five per cent., and thereafter is increased only if the cost of living has risen by another five per cent. or more and three months have elapsed since the last determination of the bonus.

Subject to these provisions, for each rise of one per cent. in the cost of living the amount on the bonus generally is increased at the rate of 25 cents a week.

Allowance For Dependents

Government Is Considering Increase In Payments

Ottawa.—Increased dependents' allowances for British servicemen are expected to be followed by a similar step in Canada before long.

In London it was announced increases would go into effect for Britons on the first day in November and it was understood here that increases in allowances paid to dependents of Canadian soldiers, sailors and airmen are under government consideration.

It is also understood early action can be expected to authorize payment of allowances for more than two children.

The present allowance for non-commissioned ranks is $35 a month to a man's wife and $12 a month each for children but not for more than two. Allowances for commissioned officers' wives start at $45 a month for the rank of lieutenant and increase with rank. The $12 monthly allowance for children is the same for all ranks.

Livestock For Britain

Arrangements Being Made For Large Shipment From Eire

London.—Eire agricultural officials arrived in London to complete arrangements for shipping 115,000,000 ($66,000,000) worth of Irish cattle and sheep to Britain. The deal was said to be the largest sale of Irish livestock ever arranged.

A surplus of about 450,000 head of cattle has been accumulated in Eire since exports were almost stopped a few months ago as the result of a foot and mouth disease epidemic.

Negotiations Still Off

London.—Negotiations between the British and German governments for repatriation of war prisoners, suspended Oct. 6, have not been resumed, the British Broadcasting Corporation reported.

British Government Will Spare No Effort To Assist Russians

Ottawa.—The United Kingdom as a country rested and restored during months when air raids have been small, and led by a prime minister as "fresh as a daisy on a summer's day" was described by Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, British high commissioner to Canada.

Mr. MacDonald, who returned after an aerial visit to the United Kingdom, said British production of supplies of war is rising fast. The people know "others will not win the war for them" and that their own effort must be strong and sustained.

The British government and people were determined to spare no pains "and to take risks" to assist the Russians. There was confidence in London that irrespective of the immediate military developments, Russia would still be fighting hard and engaging vast forces of the enemy in the spring and therefore plans to supply her with arms covered a long period.

When a newspaperman asked him after he had read a prepared statement what special lines of activity Canada could explore with a view to helping Britain, the high commissioner said:

"Right now Canada is working on the lines that are needed and I wouldn't suggest any change except raising the rate of production.

Only by a steady multiplying of the war effort of every part of the Empire can we bring a victorious end of the war into sight—and it is not in sight yet," Mr. MacDonald said.

"I think everyone in Britain has a deeper realization than before that this war will not be exceedingly tough but may be a long drawn affair, and they are prepared for that.

"Things are much quieter in the United Kingdom than when I was there six months ago," he said. "There was almost a nightly bombardment in London, but this time I heard only occasional distant gunfire and bomb bursts."

Prime Minister Churchill and other ministers were rested and fresher than when Mr. MacDonald saw them last, despite their "continuous burdens."

SPITFIRE, FLOWN BY CANADIAN, COMMEMORATES VISCOUNT BYNG

In memory of her husband, Viscountess Byng of Vimy sent to the ministry of aircraft production £5,000 for the purchase of a Spitfire named "Byng of Vimy." It was her request that the Spitfire be flown by a Canadian, and a 27-year-old Montreal lawyer, C.O. of a fighter squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force, has been given the honor.

WILL PUNISH NAZIS RESPONSIBLE FOR MURDER AND OPPRESSION

Nazis deemed responsible for murder and oppression in German-occupied countries have been notified through the BBC broadcast they will have to answer for their actions before courts of justice after the war. Reporting the disclosure in the House of Commons that British authorities are collecting evidence on these accounts, the BBC listed the names of Josef Terboven, German commissioner for Norway, shown at left; Otto von Stuepnagel, German commander for France, centre picture; Alexander Ernst von Falkenhause, German commander for Belgium, right; and Reinhard Heydrich, "protector" of Bohemia-Moravia. The broadcasts were made in the languages of all occupied countries.

Great Improvement In Strength Of The Far Eastern Defences

Melbourne.—The Australian cabinet completed a review of plans for maintaining and strengthening an unbroken defence line from India through Malaya to North Australia and New Zealand.

Nature of the plans was not disclosed, but the review followed a meeting of the war cabinet and chiefs of the three fighting services to discuss implications of a new agreement between Japan and Portugal providing for a Japanese-operated air service between India and the island of Timor. Aircraft in the service would pass over the Netherlands East Indies which recently refused to provide oil for the Japanese war machine.

Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, British commander in chief in the Far East, attended the meeting.

Information submitted to the cabinet revealed great improvement in the strength of the Far Eastern defence during the last six months and in general co-ordination of the forces holding this long line, it was said. A government spokesman indicated that all concerned are well satisfied with progress.

It was emphasized, however, that the defences have not yet been perfected and further important dispositions will be arranged.

Sir Robert hinted at the closest collaboration between Britain, Australia, the United States, Philippines command and the Netherlands East Indies. He said the defence improvements included strengthening of the British forces in Malaya, and additional guns and planes and war material for the Netherlands East Indies, as well as reinforcements of Manila's defences.

If the nations concerned are prepared to "meet the situation," he said, the extension of Japanese commercial air lines to Timor probably will not have important consequences.

Tony Lycka On Second Trial Found Guilty

At the Spring sessions of the supreme court in Macleod, Tony Lycka, minor of Coleman, was tried and found guilty on a charge of incest. He was sentenced to a term in Lethbridge jail. He appealed for a new trial, which opened on Monday morning before Mr. Justice Tweedie. Evidence was mainly a repetition of that previously given.

Witnesses called were Dr. Crawford Rose, H. C. McBurney and Alwyn Hayson, the latter two druggists of Coleman, who gave evidence of accused purchasing pills at their stores.

Accused's daughter was a witness against her father, and he denied the offence. The judge, in summing up the evidence during his address to the jury, pointed out that either one of the witnesses might have committed perjury, and it was for the jury to decide whom they considered was telling the truth.

The jury of six men returned a verdict of guilty, and Lycka was immediately sentenced to two years in Saskatchewan penitentiary. The time he has already spent in jail, about fifteen months, will count as part of the sentence. J. Vasehnak, barrister, of Lethbridge, defended Lycka, and the crown prosecutor was J. L. Fawcett, K.C., of Macleod.

Facts About Cancer

No. 2

About 95% of cancers of the stomach occur between the ages of 50 to 70. Symptoms which demand an early visit to the doctor are:

1. An "indigestion" which appears in an adult and persists for any length of time.
2. A "hunger-like" distress in the upper abdomen one or two hours after eating.
3. A change in the character of "chronic indigestion" which has been suffered for years.
4. No definite indigestion but a gradual loss of weight and strength.
5. In some few cases, vomiting as a first symptom.
6. A few may complain of a very definite dislike for meat.

The persistence of any of these symptoms over a period of time demands investigation.

Cancer can be diagnosed by an X-ray examination and by viewing the interior of the stomach with a new instrument, the gastroscope.

Cancer of the stomach is curable but only by surgery, and this depends on the size of the growth. The size of the growth depends on the length of time it has been present. Don't delay consulting your doctor after the appearance of the above symptoms.

Don't take "indigestion" too lightly. Soda and other so-called digestion cures will not cure cancer of the stomach.

The Master Key to success in the treatment of cancer is EARLY DIAGNOSIS. Patients who have come to the Alberta Diagnostic Clinic have had their symptoms on an average of one year.

That is TOO LONG.

Gen. W. Anders, commander-in-chief of the new Polish army which is being formed in Russia, will soon have three divisions staffed and organized, Victor Podolski, Polish consul-general, was informed.

Canadian industrial employment reached an all-time high when 12,577 establishments reported a working force of 1,605,580 persons at Aug. 1, the Dominion bureau of statistics has reported.

Total value of contracts awarded and commitments made by the department of munitions and supply on Canadian, United Kingdom, and other account now is nearly $2,600,000,000, the department announced.

Employees of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation airplane division, making planes for Britain and the United States, will send 10,000 packages of cigarettes to soldiers of the Russian, British, Polish and French armies.

Gold Shipments

Swelling Volume Of Precious Metal To United States

In one week of September more than $5,651,000 in gold came here from Russia. The announcement from the Department of Commerce does not cite the interesting fact that the Soviet Union has probably led other European countries this year in shipments of gold to the United States.

An exception may be made of the receipt of $278,000,000 in gold from Canada in the first half of this year, much of it probably coming originally from the United Kingdom. In the first six months of 1941 Russia's exports of gold to America were almost double those of the corresponding period of last year.

The only other considerable increases have been recorded in gold shipments from certain South American countries and from the Union of South Africa. The swelling volume of precious metal in Fort Knox is augmented by a flow that travels long distances. New York Sun.

What Happened To The Man Who Stopped His Newspaper

In the Arapahoe (Nebraska) Pioneer, December 26, 1879, WPA Writer's Project workers found the following and tale of the man who didn't keep up with the world.

"A certain man got mad at the editor and stopped his paper. The next week he sold his corn at four cents below the market price; then his property was sold for taxes because he didn't read the sheriff's sales; he lost $10 betting on Mollie McCarthy 10 days after another horse had won the race; he was arrested and fined $8 for going hunting on Sunday simply because he didn't know it was Sunday; and he paid $300 for a lot of forged notes that had been advertised two weeks and the public cautioned not to negotiate them.

"He then paid a big negro with a foot like a derrick to kick him all the way to the newspaper office, where he paid four years' subscription in advance, and made the editor sign an agreement to knock him down and rob him if he ever ordered his paper stopped again." Columbus Daily Telegram, Nebraska.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 26

CIVIC RESPONSIBILITY REGARDING BEVERAGE ALCOHOL

Golden text: Righteousness exalteth a nation: But sin is a reproach to any people. Proverb 14:34.

Lesson: Deuteronomy 5:32, 33; 11:26-28; Isaiah 28:1-6; Habakkuk 2:12. Devotional reading: Isaiah 2:2-5.

Explanations and Comments

Moses Exhorted to Proclaim to a Nation the Will of God, Deuteronomy 5:32, 33. Chapters 5-26 and 28 of Deuteronomy give the second address of Moses to the Children of Israel. In the fifth chapter Moses recapitulates the circumstances of the giving of the law on Sinai, repeats the Ten Commandments, and tells of the people's request that he act as mediator between them and Jehovah.

"The request of the people gives expression to the permanent need in national life of men especially gifted to interpret to their fellows the contemporary mind and will of God."

As for himself, he was hidden to students a curse, Jehovah's laws about which he was to instruct the people and, in the verses of our text, he exhorts the people to prove obedient.

"Seeing that God had commanded them, and so willing to consider their frame and gratify them in what they desired, and without so ready to make the best of them—seeing they themselves had desired to have Moses for their teacher, who was now teaching them—and seeing they had promised so solemnly, and under the influence of so many good causes and considerations, that they would hear and do, he charges them to walk in all the ways that God had commanded them, assuring them that it would be highly for their advantage to do so. The only way to be happy is to be holy. Say to the righteous, it shall be well with them." (Matthew Henry).

Obedience Brings Blessings: Disobedience a Curse, Deuteronomy 11:26-28. In verses 26-28 Moses concludes his general exhortation to obedience. He sets before them, explaining to them, a blessing and a curse. These are "the rewards and the punishments, as they stand in the promises and the threatenings, which are the great sanctions of the law, taking hold of hope and fear, those two handles of the soul, by which it is caught, held and managed."

Denunciation of the Drunkards of Ephraim, Isaiah 28:1-6. Isaiah pictures Samaria, the capital of the Northern Kingdom (Ephraim, or Israel) its Crown of Pride, its object of boasting, as a drunken reveler whose head is garlanded with a wreath of fading flowers. Samaria had a commanding situation crowning a low sunny hill in the centre of a fertile valley, its slopes terraced with vineyards and gardens, and Isaiah speaks of it as the head of the fat valley. He predicts the speedy fall of Samaria.

Britain Collecting Evidence Regarding Those Responsible For Cruelty

The British government announced it is collecting evidence regarding Germans who may be responsible for murder, oppression and cruelties to hostages and others in German-occupied territories.

Richard Law, under-secretary for foreign affairs, told the House of Commons that the government had the subject of punishment for such individuals under consideration and that the foreign office was discussing the matter with allied governments.

"These actions are not passing unnoticed either in the countries where they occur or in this country," he said.

Training Labor For War Industries In Canada

Canada, dipping deep into her reserves of labor to man increasingly busy factories, has also extended labor training programmes, to an extent unknown in the past, labor department officials said.

War emergency training programme reports that 33,003 persons took training from April 1 to Aug. 30. The 93 schools and training centres reported 10,063 were actually in training on Aug. 1.

In the industrial classes, discharged soldiers of the present war are receiving training alongside veterans of the first Great War, officials said.

Watch For The Growl

When a dog barks, he holds his head high, leaving his throat exposed. When he growls, he lowers his head, for a growl means impending attack, and the vulnerable neck is guarded by the sinking of the head.

RADIO FURNISHES HEALTH NEWS

Radio plays promoted by the Health League of Canada are now being heard in the Grades 7 and 8 class rooms of the Moose Jaw public schools. It was stated by Dr. Gordon Bates, Director of the League. A letter notifying Dr. Bates to this effect adds that arrangements are being made to extend the service to the lower grades in the near future.

The action in Moose Jaw was taken at the instance of the radio station concerned, but Dr. Bates stated that Ministers of Education in all provinces will be approached with a view to attracting further interest to this method of disseminating health education for children. The plays in question present dramatic episodes in the lives of great medical scientists and reformers, and are designed to promote a Dominion-wide public health program in the interests of greater Canadian health and efficiency, it was stated.

Hitler's Attack On Russia Shows Same Fear Napoleon Had

The Christian Science Monitor says: The Nazi campaign against Russia holds for free peoples a significance deeper than the outcome of the battles in that campaign. Hitler's attack on that country was the first clear sign that the fear which obsessed Napoleon, driving him now against this "enemy," now against that, and at last undermining his political system, had also gripped the Nazis.

DAUGHTER OF DESTINY

CHAPTER XXIX.

Wong here! Devona realized she'd taken a step backward, stood staring now at the Oriental's face, dazedly fumbling for an answer to this confusion. In the same instant, she saw recognition flicker across that passive face, flame for the space of a thought, then die back into that impenetrable mask.

"What is it, please?" That clipped British accent!

Wong, all right. And he knew she was. And was pretending he didn't.

Pushing terror aside, she found her voice.

"I'm Dona Carlotta, from the El Mexicano. Mr. Macias asked me to call for a package," she replied, automatically repeating the little speech she'd planned.

It probably wouldn't work now. Not with Wong's knowing who she really was—knowing, too, probably, that she wasn't in Macias' confidence.

Amazingly enough, he nodded. The repellent, yellow-skinned face disappeared from the narrow opening, and a key turned gratefully in the lock. Then the door swung open.

Wong stepped aside. "Come in, please."

Devona thrust aside an impulse to turn back, fly down those steps to the waiting taxi. But—and she bolstered her flagging courage—anything worth doing at all took a little daring. No real harm could come to her. After all, she could still still claim innocence, ignorance even. Besides, having come this far—

Wong closed the door behind her, led the way down the hall at that same little dog-trot, to the last of the closed doors. Opening it, he snapped on a light, stood aside.

"Wait here, please."

"Thank you." She stepped past him into the tiny room.

Behind her, the door closed again with a rasp. Then she heard Wong's footsteps fade down the hall again. Somewhere a door opened, voices rose faintly then were cut off again as the door closed.

Devona, her knees threatening real mutiny now, sagged into a chair, sat clutching her bag, straining her ears for any sound.

She waited for what seemed hours while realization of her own foolhardiness grew alarmingly. She'd been insane not to report her suspicions to the police or to Dale himself. Because, she argued now, if this were really legitimate business of Macias', she'd have a hard time explaining her interference. And if it weren't—how could she hope to outsmart underworld professionals when Dale himself couldn't do it?

She'd been mad to come. A silly romantic notion that she could play heroine in Dale's serious drama. Heroine! She'd probably only bungled her chance to be of some real help now. And what with Wong's recognizing her now and—

She stood up, crossed quickly to the door. She'd slip out right now before she'd got any further involved. Because any moment now and he would be back with—

Her hand turned on the door-knob. First to left. Then to the right. She pulled again. Stuck! No—the door was locked!

But it couldn't be! Frantically she twisted it back and forth, leaned one slim shoulder against the door.

Then, turning, she raced to the one narrow window, flung up the blind. Less than 10 feet below a narrow strip of sidewalk led from the street beyond. Her shaking fingers tore at the old-fashioned rusted bolt. But there was no turning it. Some one had carefully and effectively nailed the window shut. Nails, she noticed, panicky now, that were shiny new.

She tried the door again, felt a scream rising to her lips, terror clawing at her last fleeing wit. Then, abruptly, she stiffened, forced herself to return to the rickety chair, sit down calmly.

But it was hard to keep from crying out when footsteps sounded in the hall again, drew nearer rapidly. Then a key turned and the door opened. She had to bite her lips to keep back a treacherous little scream as Wong stepped into the room again.

"Sorry to keep you waiting, miss," he said as calmly as if this were his mother's Palm Springs hacienda, and she had sent him on some trivial errand.

She heard her own voice, strangely cool. "Oh, that's all right."

"Here is the package." He handed her what looked like a white ash box.

Tucking it under one arm, she pulled on her gloves with deliberate slowness, amazed even herself.

"Thank you."

"Was that all?"

Something flickered across his face. Devona wasn't sure but that it was a half smile. That, even more than the locked door, told her she wasn't yet out of danger.

"Yes. Thank you. And now—"

Boldly she stepped past him toward the shadowy hall. If he moved to stop her, she decided, she'd run.

Wong slipped past her now, opened the door with a flourish.

"Thank you," she murmured, forced herself to walk down the front steps calmly.

Then, drawing a long breath of the salty air, she suppressed a hysterical little giggle. Here she was—she congratulated herself—and fairly ran down the walk to the car waiting at the curb. So far, so good.

She stopped short.

The car waiting for her at the curbing—wasn't a taxi!

For a moment she stared at it. No advertisement emblazoned on its door. No uniformed driver opening the door. Instead, the man behind the wheel of the long black coupe was—her ex-husband collapsed to cold, clammy feet—Jose Macias!

"Well," he said calmly, "fancy finding you here, Dona."

She couldn't speak, couldn't even breathe. She stood there, staring, stricken.

"Won't you get in?" he invited, flung open the door. "I'll drive you—wherever you're going."

"This—I, my taxi—"

"I took the liberty of dismissing him. Too bad you didn't tell me you wanted to come down here, Dona," he said blandly. "I gave you every opportunity to ask me to bring you, remember?"

He smiled—knowingly.

Devona felt her last prop dissolve under her. So he'd known all along. He'd let her come down here—walk into this trap!

Scream, should she? Call for help. But—she glanced up and down the deserted, darkened street—what help would there be here? If she resisted now, even the little game would be over. Her best chance was to postpone the showdown until the odds were a little more evenly divided.

"Thank you so much!"—and she stepped into the car.

Macias climbed in beside her, started the coupe's powerful motor deftly, guided the long car down the narrow street.

For awhile, they skirted the lighted highways, kept to back streets that wound sinuously through shadows, past towering buildings steeped in darkness. Macias drove rapidly, but carefully, giving his whole attention to their strangely devious route.

Finally they turned into a blazing thoroughfare. Devona released a little sigh of relief. At least there were crowds here—people, policemen, bystanders who might come to her rescue if she needed it.

Not that Macias would give her any opportunity to summon help. He'd speeded up now. They travelled rapidly from one traffic signal to the next, his rate timed to strike the green lights consistently. And—she glancing at the speedometer—at a rate that would make it impossible to leap from the moving car.

Still holding the white shoe box in her lap, any number of plans presented themselves to her feverishly searching mind. Throw it out the window toward the first uniformed officer she saw? Try to get it open long enough to see, to take from it one of the smaller square boxes she was sure it contained?

Convincing evidence if she could get it. Assuming, of course, the very improbable event of her being able to get the evidence out into hands where it would do any good.

As if he'd followed her thinking, Macias reached quietly for the white box. "I'll relieve you of that, Dona. Thanks a lot for bothering your pretty head."

Calmly, he tossed it onto the shelf behind their heads, smiled at her a moment before his attention went back to the street ahead.

There wasn't a chance that he'd believe any story she fabricated now, she realized, her hands clenched in her lap. He'd realized that that phone call had been her clue. He'd actually let her think she was getting away with something, trailed her down here to-night deliberately, to that grim little house on Front St. Even Wong had been in on the little stunt. It was all clear enough.

Just what the next move in this game was to be—that was the baffling, terrifying part. If only she'd had the good sense to tell some one—even Manuel—that something was up.

But not a soul knew where she was. No one would even miss her until to-morrow morning. Tal would call her hotel then. The desk clerk would report "No answer." Tal might not even then become alarmed, thinking she'd gone out for early breakfast or shopping—or something. He might not call for hours after that!

They flashed by a neon-lighted clock tower. One twenty-five. Tal wouldn't call until 8 in the morning at the earliest. Unless he discovered she hadn't been in her room all night, he probably wouldn't become alarmed until noon. At the very best it was six hours and a half before she could hope for any help from that direction.

Grimly she set her lips. Six hours and a half! Maybe longer. And that would be too late! Much too late!

Canadian Expeditions

General McNaughton Refers To Work Engaged In By Troops

In a broadcast reference to Canadian expeditions along the coast of Europe, Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Corps, primarily had in mind operations of the Royal Canadian Engineers at Gibraltar, the Spitbergen raid and the abort, move of a brigade through Brest towards Paris and back to England in June, 1940 it was learned.

Canadian formations also were prepared to cross the Channel to Dunkirk and other French ports if the call had come during the Battle of France. Some units were aboard ship in Dover harbor ready to sail when the plan was cancelled. Detachments of Canadian tunnelling companies have been working on Gibraltar fortifications since last September.

(The Canadian Corps chief, in a message read over a CBC network, said "from this citadel (Britain) as the calls have come, detachments of our men have gone forth in expeditions along the coast of Europe from far away Spitbergen in the north, to the fortress of Gibraltar in the south. . . . Gen. McNaughton did not expand this reference to "expeditions" and there was some question as to whether undertakings not already announced were referred to.)

Balanced-Diet Bread

Detroit Bakery Has Good Sales Points For New Loaf

The many sales points that can be urged on behalf of a loaf of bread are indicated in the promotion of a new loaf undertaken by a Detroit bakery. The loaf's economy appeal was emphasized by comparing its cost with other foods containing similar vitamin and mineral enrichment. A ten-cent loaf, for example, was said to possess the same carbohydrate content as 42 cents worth of apples; protein content of 25 cents worth of eggs; calcium content of 29 cents worth of cottage cheese; vitamin B1 content of 66 cents worth of calf's liver; iron content of 83 cents worth of spinach. The bakery recommended that two slices of this "balanced-diet" bread be consumed with every meal—Marketing, Toronto.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

OPPORTUNITY PRESENT

The day is always his who works in it with sincerity and great aims.—Emerson.

It is common to overlook what is near by keeping the eye fixed on something remote. — Samuel Johnson.

If one would be successful in the future, let him make the most of the present. — Mary Baker Eddy.

For truth and duty it is ever the fitting time; who waits until circumstances completely favor his undertaking, will never accomplish anything. — Luther.

It is in man and not in his circumstances that the secret of his destiny resides. — Carlyle.

Every duty brings its peculiar delight, every denial its appropriate compensation, every thought its recompense, every cross its crown, pay goes with performance as effect with cause. — Mildmay.

World-Famous Laboratory

Since Nazis Invaded Paris Its Fate Is In Doubt

In May, 1940, a month before the Nazi invasion of France, the famous Pasteur Institute in Paris announced the discovery of a serum against dysentery. The importance of this discovery was classed with that of the anti-tetanus and anti-cholera serums. But now that the Nazis are in Paris, there is apprehension as to the fate of this world-famous laboratory. It is well known that through the brutal application of their silly race theory, the Nazis have robbed German science of much talent, and it is feared that the work of the Pasteur Institute is now being menaced.—Toronto Star.

Low Standard Of Health

Military Training Shows Many Youths Of Canada Physically Unfit

The statement by Major-General LaFleche that compulsory military training has revealed a "disappointing" state of health among Canada's youth draws special attention to a long-term condition in Canada to which not enough realistic attention has been paid. It is proof of failure on the part of parents, school authorities and medical authorities to take corrective action to a sufficient degree during the boyhood of these youths who are now found to be physically unfit. A certain number are congenitally poorly equipped physically, but in a large percentage of cases it is doubtless the fact that treatment and training would have made the difference between their present medical category and A1.

The Associate Deputy Minister for National War Services urged that the situation be viewed as a war problem, and also one for post-war attention. Life after the war would not be easy; strong, virile men would be needed then, as today, said General LaFleche. This is indeed true. The fact that there are "too many imperfect men" in Canada does no credit to the nation.

More attention to juvenile health and strength would mean less hospitalization, less unemployment in later life. There has been complaint of the waste of Canada's natural resources, but a graver waste is that of Canada's human resources.—Toronto Globe and Mail.

Britain's Industries

How United Kingdom Is Carrying On As A World Manufacturer

There came in the mail from London this week three little announcements of Britain's export trade, each relatively unimportant, but they tell strikingly of how England is carrying on its role as world manufacturer at the same time that it is serving as civilization's beleaguered fortress.

A shipment of 2,700 airplane models to Singapore for enthusiasts who make model-flying their hobby. During the first six months of 1941 the value of pianos shipped from Britain overseas was half as much again as it was in the same period of 1940—$355,000 as against $225,000. Up to August in this year Britain has exported $3,669,330 worth of locomotives, tenders and freight cars to Turkey.

It isn't business as usual—but it is the usual amount of business under the most unusual of difficulties and hardships.—Ottawa Journal.

Sabotage Movement

Paper Contends Time Is Ripe For This Campaign

A mighty "S" movement—"S" for sabotage—would complete and intensify Britain's "V" for Victory campaign, says "Die Zeitung," anti-Nazi newspaper published in London. The paper, contending the time was ripe for such a campaign, said the effects of an "S" offensive carried out vigorously would shatter the shaky spires of German troops. It suggested that inhabitants of the occupied countries would be taught to "burn," "wreck" and "blow up" by radio talks and leaflet raids.

Heartless Inhumanity

It is no good to moralize on the heartless inhumanity of shooting random helpless hostages. It is cruel and inhuman; it results from war, and it results specifically from the kind of war which presumed that a continent could be conquered and held under the Nazi heel. On the individual who made and acted on that supposition is the blood of these innocents added to the blood of so many others.—Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

The word "mausoleum" is derived from reference to the building erected in honor of Mausolus by his wife.

Apple-Shaped in Red Gingham

A welcome gift or a sizzling seller at your club's bazaar—these jelly pot-holders.

You can make a dozen at a time, apple-shaped ones of red checked gingham and, in the same easy way, wild-rose shapes in pink gingham. Their green binding is a color contrast and in a loop at the top makes a perky little stem!

Draw the outline of an apple to fill a 6-inch square of paper and from this outline cut the back and front of the pot-holder.

Then cut several layers of flannel the same size, for padding, and sew all together with quilting stitches, as our sketch shows. Bind edges of holder with 1/2-inch binding.

Another grand gift (which will sell at bazaars like hot cakes, too) is a pair of Mexican bookends—really just two bricks covered with felt, on which you glue colorful felt figures, a fat donkey and a Mexican in his sombrero. Easy with directions!

Our 32-page booklet tells in detail how to make the clever Mexican bookends and potholders. Has attractive gifts easily made from materials on hand—vintage table, bathroom utility box, bookrack table; many other pretty items.

WEDDINGS

CLARKE - OAKES

A wedding of interest to the young people of Coleman and Blairmore took place in St. Anthony's church, Coleman, on Saturday evening at 5 o'clock when Miss Edith Oakes, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Oakes, of Blairmore, was united in marriage to Clarence, third son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clarke, of Coleman. Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clarke, brother and sister-in-law of the groom. Rev. J. R. Hague conducted the ceremony.

A reception was held at the home of the newlyweds on Second street where relatives and friends of the couple were present.

Mrs. J. Hockley, of Penticton, sister of the groom, was present for the wedding.

BEDUZ - DECECO

A wedding of interest took place at Holy Ghost church on Sunday evening, October 5, when Mrs. Angelo DeCecco became the bride of Mr. Domes Beduz, of Kimberley. Attendants were Mrs. Ines Toppano and Mr. Feruccio, son of the bride. Rev. Father L. Sullivan conducted. A reception was held at the home of the bride on Fourth street. The bride couple left the following day for Trail, where they spent a week, the guests of the bride's daughter, Mrs. A. Erwin, and Mr. Erwin. They are now residing at Kimberley, where the groom is employed.

The many friends of the couple wish them many years of married happiness.

JOSEPH - MORFINI

The marriage of Miss Marie Morfini, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugenio Morfini, of Mossbank, Saskatchewan, to Mr. Laurie Joseph, son of Mrs. Joseph Joseph and the late Mr. Joseph, took place at Holy Ghost church on Saturday morning. Attendants were Miss Louise Joseph and Mr. Harry Morfini. Rev. Father L. Sullivan conducted.

The bride was lovely in a floor length gown of white triple sheer and a long cape veil. She carried a bouquet of roses and carnations. Her bridesmaid wore a floor length gown of pale blue net over satin with white gardenias in her hair.

Her bouquet was of mums and carnations.

At the signing of the register, Miss Peggy McDonald sang "Ave Maria" with Miss Isabel McDonald at the organ.

Following the ceremony the bridal party returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Costellano, sister of the bride, where immediate relatives and friends sat down to a sumptuous wedding dinner. Mr. Costellano proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom ably responded. Mr. Morfini, father of the bride, also proposed a toast to the bride couple to which Mr. Albert Joseph, grandfather of the groom responded. Father L. Sullivan also spoke a few words, welcoming the bride to the local parish.

During the evening many friends gathered to congratulate the happy couple and dance to the wee sma' hours. The happy couple left for a brief honeymoon after which they will take up residence here where the groom is employed.
